

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form or ledger, organized into approximately 15 horizontal rows. The text is dense and appears to be a record of transactions or data entries. The characters are highly stylized and consistent throughout the document. The text is written in black ink on a light-colored background.

